

A Blind man with a lamp

It was a dark night. A blind man was going on road. He had a lamp in his hand.” Two men laughed at him. One of them said, “what is the use of lamp to a blind man? The other called a blind man a fool.

The blind man heard this. He laughed at their foolishness. The blind man said, “the lamp is for those people who are careless. They would not notice him in the darkness. The lamp would show them the way.” The men felt sorry for their foolishness. It was too much for them.

Moral: don't jeer at the helpless.
