After 1848, nationalism in Europe moved away from its association with democracy and revolution. Nationalist sentiments were often mobilised by conservatives for promoting state power and achieving political domination over Europe. This can be observed in the process by which Germany and Italy came to be unified as nation-states. As you have seen, nationalist feelings were widespread among middle-class German, who in 1848 tried to unite the different regions of the German confederation into a nation-state governed by an elected parliament. This liberal initiative to nation building was, however, repressed by the combined forces of the monarchy and the military, supported by the large landowners (called Junkers) of Prussia. From then on, Prussia took on the leadership of the movement for national unification. Its chief minister, Otto von Bismarck, was the architect of this process carried out with the help of the Prussian army and bureaucracy. Three wars over seven years - with Austria, Denmark and France ended in Prussian victory and completed the - process of unification. In January 1871, the Prussian king, William I, was proclaimed German Emperor in a ceremony held at Versailles.

Read the source given below and answer any 5 of the 6 questions that follow by choosing the most appropriate option :

Globalisation is not a new phenomenon. It was there at the time of colonisation. In the nineteenth century when European traders came to India, at that time too, Indian spices were exported to different countries of the world and farmers of south India were encouraged to grow these crops. Till today it is one of the important items of export from India. During the British period cotton belts of India attracted the British and ultimately cotton was exported to Britain as a raw material for their textile industries. Under globalisation, particularly after 1990, the farmers in India have been exposed to new challenges. Despite being an important producer of rice, cotton, rubber, tea, coffee, jute and spices our agricultural products are not able to compete with the developed countries because of the highly subsidised agriculture in those countries. Today, Indian agriculture finds itself at the crossroads. To make agriculture successful and profitable, proper thrust should be given to the improvement of the condition of marginal and small farmers. The green revolution promised much. But today it's under controversies. It is being alleged that it has caused land degradation due to overuse of chemicals, drying aquifers and vanishing biodiversity. The keyword today is "gene revolution", which includes genetic engineering. In fact organic farming is much in vogue today because it is practised without factory made chemicals such as fertilisers and pesticides. Hence, it does not affect environment in a negative manner.

53. The given extract throws light on ____.
- Globalisation and the colonisation in agriculture.
  - Impact of globalisation on agriculture.
  - New Economic policy pertaining to agriculture.
  - none of these.
54. Which of the following has been a direct disadvantage of globalisation to the farmer?
- increase in global competition with the developed countries.
  - degradation of land due to the overuse of chemicals.
  - Increased expenditure on buying HYV seeds.
  - all the above.
55. The method of farming done without using any type of chemical fertiliser, urea, insecticides is known as ____.
- mixed farming
  - organic farming
  - sustainable farming
  - inorganic farming
56. The key word today is "gene revolution" which includes genetic engineering. Which of the following is recognized as genetic engineering?
- powerful supplement in inventing insecticides and pesticides
  - powerful supplement in inventing biological inputs and fertilisers
  - powerful supplement in inventing new hybrid varieties of seeds
  - powerful supplement in inventing organic and inorganic farming
57. In the nineteenth century when European traders came to India, _____ were exported to different countries of the world.
- Indian clothes
  - Indian spices
  - Indian diamonds
  - All of the above
