

The Bee and The Dove

Once a bee felt thirsty. It flew to a pond. As it wanted to take water, it fell into the pond. A dove flew by that side it was carrying a stick in its beak for building her nest. It saw the bee and threw a leaf. The bee climbed over the leaf. Then it flew away.

After a few days hunters came to the forest. They could not get any big bird. One of the hunter aimed at the dove. The hunter was standing under the tree. The bee while resting in its hive saw the hunter. It flew and stung him hard on the hand. The gun flew down from his hand. There was a loud noise. The dove heard the noise and flew away. She thanked the bee for its help.

Moral: kindness never goes unrewarded.