Question 7.

Although a legal framework for delegating Power to the People has been established, it is yet to be given an iron content. Explain briefly the limitations in efficient working of local self-governments under the following headlines:

- (a) Unethical means adopted in elections
- (b) Low rate of Literacy
- (c) Suppressed position of rural women.

Answer:

(a) Unethical means:

Unfortunately 'money' nowadays plays a big role in elections. The rich farmers in rural areas and traders and propertied classes in towns and cities squander a lot of money. This can mar the electoral prospects of those candidates who can not spend much on elections. We also find a connection between criminals and some powerful persons both in rural and urban areas. This may well distort election results. It is a great threat to cleaner polls.

(b) Low rate of Literacy:

Ignorance and democracy cannot go hand in hand. To remain in power needs to have a sound knowledge of facts. People should know the persons whom they elect to act as their representatives. In 2001, The Literacy-rate was recorded at 65.38 in the country. But in a certain districts and regions the number of illiterates is alarming even now.

(c) Suppressed position of rural women:

The 73rd and 74th Amendment Acts lay down that 1/3rd of the total number of seats at all levels would be reserved for women. The socio-economic condition of tribal women or those belonging to rural or backward regions, is no better than second-rate citizens. They have to face a stiff opposition from their parents or in-laws, if they wish to enter public life. At many places, women elected as Sarpanchas were not allowed to take charge of their work. They are discouraged from going to Panchayat's office and if they dare go there, they would simply be required to sign some documents and go back to their homes.

Question 8.

There are many defects in the working of local self government institutions. Analyse them under the following headlines:

- (a) Communal and Caste factors.
- (b) Role of Money in Elections
- (c) Paucity of funds.

Answer:

Following are the defects regarding the concerned headlines in the working of local self-government institutions:

(a) Communal and Caste factors: Democracy loses its substance if voters are swayed by communal or caste factors. It is unfortunate that candidates are selected on the basis of their caste or community and voters are persuaded to vote on caste and communal lines.

(b) Role of Money in Elections:

In the heat of the election- campaign, the rich, farmers and traders squander a lot of money, usually in a wasteful way. This tendency gives a severe set-back blow to the electoral prospects of the capable candidates who are not in a position to spend much on elections.

(c) Paucity of Funds:

The most serious confronting the rural and the urban bodies is the shortage of funds. These institutions have been entrusted with the responsibility of preparing plans for economic and social development, rural electrification, poverty alleviation slum improvement and urban forestry. To undertake such onerous tasks, the local bodies are yet to start functioning with independence and sufficient resources. Panchayats and urban bodies can become responsive to the local needs through effective participation of the people and sufficient funds at their command.

Question 9.

Describe the shortcomings (limitations in efficient working) of the Panchayati Raj System with reference to the following:

- (a) Unethical Means adopted in elections
- (b) Poverty and Illiteracy in the country
- (c) Communal trends in voting.

Answer:(a) Unethical Means adopted in elections:

There are some unethical means which are adopted in elections such as

- 1. Money game in elections,
- 2. Connection between criminals and some powerful persons in rural areas, and
- 3. And appeal to voters's caste feelings.

(b) Poverty and Illiteracy in the country:

The illiterate and poor masses do not understand what their rights are. Ignorance and poverty causes to public apathy and lack of enthusiasm about Panchayati Raj.

(c) Communal Trends in Voting:

The voters are not above communal or religious prejudices. Very often the Muslims, the Sikhs, the Christians and other communities vote along communal lines. The Hindus are divided into numerous caste grouping. Unfortunately, caste has become a significant factor in electoral politics. The rural India needs forward looking leaders to take the reins of Panchayati Raj institutions in their hands.

Question 7.

There are many defects in the working of local self government institutions. Analyse them under the following headlines:

- (a) Role of Money in Elections
- (b) Paucity of funds.

Answer:

Following are the defects regarding the concerned headlines in the working of local self-government institutions:

(a) Role of Money in Elections: In the heat of the election- campaign, the rich farmers and traders squander a lot of money, usually in a wasteful way. This tendency gives a severe set-back blow to the electoral prospects of the capable candidates who are not in a position to spend much on elections.

(b) Paucity of Funds: The most serious confronting the rural and the urban bodies is the shortage of funds. These institutions have been entrusted with the responsibility of preparing plans for economic and social development, rural electrification, poverty alleviation slum improvement and urban forestry. To undertake such onerous tasks, the local bodies are yet to start functioning with independence and sufficient resources. Panchayats and urban bodies can become responsive to the local needs through effective participation of the people and sufficient funds at their command.
