Q.1 Read the following passage and answer the questions on the basis of comprehension of the passage (Any ten) - [10×1=10]

Ideas rule the world and thoughts decide the way of life. It is the mind which sculpts one's destiny. If one thinks positively, if one thinks in the right direction, one achieves the goal, what one aspires for. Ideas are nothing, but an outcome of one's detailed thinking. They shape and determine the destiny of human beings and contribute to the growth and well-being of the civilization. Every great achievement whether in the field of religion, science, medicine, space, technology, information and communication sector or in any field, was at the first stage, an idea. The most extraordinary success, the astonishing scientific discovery, the splendid technological feats like splitting the atom, heart transplantation , cloning of sheep , unraveling the secrets of Mars, walking on the surface of the Moon, were all the results of an idea in the beginning. Have we ever thought of the present revolution in Information Technology two decades back? It was the vision of Azim Hashmi Premji, N.R. Narayan Murthy and also the late Dewang Mehta, Sam Pitrala and others who catapulted India among the super powers in IT sector. Ideas with knowledge, lead to action and success comes to you with hugging hands. Knowledge is power. When a person applies his knowledge and understands the problem, analyses the prevailing situation with hard work and perseverance, the solution is not far to reach and when one knows the answer, the success is yours. It was the noble idea of Alfred Nobel, inventor of Dynamite, to use his fortune, for the establishment of Annual awards to people, who contributed outstandingly in the field of Physics, Chemistry, Medicine, Literature, Economics and Peace.

"Ideas are like rabbits, you get a couple, learn how to handle them and pretty soon you have a dozen."

Literacy is one of the most essential indicators of the quality of a country's human capital. While the country has made significant progress in improving literacy over the years, it continues to be home to 313 million illiterate people; 59 percent of them are women. About three decades ago, the adult male literacy rate in India was almost twice that for adult females. While this gap has narrowed substantially over the years, adult male literacy rate still surpasses the adult female literacy rate. A survey was conducted by National Observer Research Foundation, New Delhi, India. The collected information is given below -

Year	1987	1993	1999	2007	2014	2017
	(%)	(%)	(%)	(%)	(%)	(%)
Male Literacy Rate	60.5	65.5	69.2	76.6	80.3	81.5

Q.3 Read the passage carefully and make notes. Supply a suitable title and write a short summary on the basis of your notes (in your own words) - [5+3=8]

Disaster management is a term that is usually referred to as the management of resources and responsibilities in dealing with the losses of life and property in a disaster. Every country should have a plan to maintain or mitigate the cause of disasters. The whole world is in the disaster management mode due to the COVID – 19 pandemic that has gripped the whole world. Countries that were disaster – ready are coping up with the pandemic relatively well than the countries that had neglected the importance of disaster management. The example of U.S.A., Italy or Spain is in front of us. Disasters can be both, man-made as well as natural.

Earthquakes, floods, volcanic eruptions, landslides etc. are some natural disasters. Bomb explosions, gas leakage, fire accidents, wars etc. are some man-made disasters. Disaster management should always have long term planning and everything should be in place well before the occurrence of disasters. Organizations such as the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) takes necessary actions during and before disasters. When the cyclone Amphan hit India and Bangladesh on the Bay of Bengal coast, the preparedness of the authorities led to the mass evacuation of people in the red zones. A proper rehabilitation program should be in place to help the victims. Government should provide them employment opportunities, health and monetary aids etc. Citizens can also play a significant role in disaster management. They can spread awareness about the precautions to be taken. It is the duty of the teachers and school management to let the students understand their duties and responsibilities during and after the disasters. People should have the knowledge of basic first aid. They should be trained not to panic and to avoid spreading rumours, hoaxes and false news.

Q.6 Read the following extract from the poems in your textbook and answer the following questions (Any one) - [3×1=3]

The cardboard shows me how it was
 When the two girl cousins went paddling,
 Each one holding on of my mother's hands,
 And she the big girl-some twelve years or so.
 All three stood still to smile through their hair
 At the uncle with the camera. A sweet face,
 My mother's, that was before I was born.
 And the sea, which appears to have changed less,
 Washed their terribly transient feet.

I do not understand this child
Though we have lived together now
In the same house for years. I know
Nothing of him, so try to build
Up a relationship from how
He was when small. Yet have I killed
The seed I spent or sown it where
The land is his and none of mine?
We speak like strangers, there's no sign
Of understanding in the air.

Q.7 Read the following extract from your textbook and answer the following questions (Any one) - [3×1=3]

Article 48A of the Constitution of India provides that "the State shall endeavour to protect and improve the environment and to safeguard the forests and wildlife of the country". But what causes endless anguish is the fact that laws are never respected nor enforced in India. (For instance, the Constitution says that casteism, untouchability and bonded labour shall be abolished, but they flourish shamelessly even after forty-four years of the operation of the Constitution.). A recent report of our Parliament's Estimates Committee has highlighted the near catastrophic depletion of India's forests over the last four decades. India, according to reliable data, is losing its forests at the rate of 3.7 million acres a year. Large areas, officially designated as forest land, "are already virtually treeless". The actual loss of forests is estimated to be about eight times the rate indicated by government statistics.

Questions -

- (i) What does our Constitution ensure?
 - (a) protection of forests
 - (b) protection of wild life
 - (c) abolishment of casteism, bonded labour and untouchability
 - (d) all of these

- (ii) What is India losing rapidly?
- (a) wildlife
 - (b) coal mines
 - (c) rivers
 - (d) forests
- (iii) Pick out a word from the passage which means 'reduction in number or quantity' –
- (a) virtually
 - (b) reliable
 - (c) depletion
 - (d) statistics

OR

We lifted her off the bed and, as is customary, laid her on the ground and covered her with a red shroud. After a few hours of mourning we left her alone to make arrangements for her funeral. In the evening we went to her room with a crude stretcher to take her to be cremated. The sun was setting and had lit her room and verandah with a blaze of golden light. We stopped half – way in the courtyard. All over the verandah and in her room right up to where she lay dead and stiff wrapped in the red shroud, thousands of sparrows sat scattered on the floor. There was no chirruping. We felt sorry for the birds and my mother fetched some bread for them. She broke it into little crumbs, the way my grandmother used to, and threw it to them. The sparrows took no notice of the bread. When we carried my grandmother's corpse off, they flew away quietly.

Questions -

- (i) Who came to bid farewell to the grandmother?
 - (a) crows
 - (b) sparrows
