

Beauties of Nature

Essay No. 01

Nature is full of beauties. Only we should have eyes to perceive them, as it is wisely said that beauty lies in the eyes of the beholder.

We are surrounded by beauties of nature. If we look at the sky at night, we can see the sight of countless stars and the silvery moon. Early at dawn the eastern horizon offers a glamorous golden sight. At sunset, the purple flow in the western horizon is very captivating.

If the sky is cloudy, we can enjoy the beauty of sailing clouds which look like heaps of woolen fabric. In the morning, we can see the fascinating dewdrops hanging on the blades of grass.

Three are a wonder of nature. Their green leaves and flowers offer a sight the beauty of which is beggars' description

The snow –capped mountains, crystal watered lakes and lashing waves of blue seas are worth-seeing. The beauty of the gurgling rivulets and snow-packed glaciers is indescribable.

It is true that a man who lives in accordance with the laws of nature, not only leads a happy and, disciplined life. But also, he is an asset to society. He is innocent and simple and lovable, as he has not got mastery over the craft of cunningness, deceit and duplicity.

Beauties of Nature

Nature is a treasure house of beauties of varied varieties. It is often said that beauty lies in the eyes of the beholder. That may be as it is, but, in reality, the irresistible sights and sounds of nature cannot be said to be just a matter concerning the beholder. There can be hardly a person who will not like to see colorful, sweet-smelling flowers, mountain Peaks covered with snow, sailing clouds, sea waves lashing the shores and so on.

It seems God has created this universe with great affection and an equal amount of deftness. The inimitable intricate designs just on a leaf of a tree such as the pipal can speak volumes of beauty of nature and sincerity and calibre of God.

If we go to any garden, we can see multifarious facets of beauties of nature. We can see their flowers of different colours and variety. We can see colorful birds humming and chirping in the trees. We can see colorful, sprightly fishes and water animals there if there is an aquarium or a pond. If we visit the place early in the morning, we can see iridescent dew-drops on blades of grass. In case, we happen to go there at dawn, we can witness the charming beauty of the sunrise. Anybody, even the poorest, can enjoy the most alluring sights of the sun-rise, the moon and the stars.

Nature has given us eyes to feast on the sights of hills, mountains, glaciers, lakes, cataracts, seas, oceans, clouds, stars, trees, flowers, birds, animals, rivers and so on.

If we do not look at the beauties of nature or cannot enjoy them, the fault lies with us. It can simply bespeak our crass materialism, philistinism and money-mindedness.
