Sir,

I shall feel greatly obliged if you publish my views on the challenge of communal harmony facing our country today, in your esteemed paper.

The achievement of communal harmony is really a big challenge before us today. Communal riots breaking out in different parts of the country at different times on frivolous pretexts are a cause of great concern. They not only involve a huge loss to life and property but also sow permanent seeds of scorn and hatred between groups of people for all times to come. The government must, therefore, come down heavily on such elements as create unrest amongst the people. While those who have suffered should be compensated well, heavy punishments should be given those who are responsible for the riots. All religious processions should be banned and religious places should be freed of all undesirable elements residing inside. Use of microphone in religious meet should be disallowed and nobody should be allowed to mix politics with religion. The entire media should be geared to educate people and to expose the evil design of the mischief makers. The neighboring countries trying to foment and encourage trouble in this country should be given a stern warning. Out textbooks in schools and colleges should also be rewritten to make our teaching truly national, secular and patriotic.

Expecting a favorable action,

Yours faithfully,

XYZ.
