Answer 12

Nalanda in Bihar was the most famous Buddhist monastery of its period. It was a unique centre of Buddhist learning. Chinese pilgrims such as Xuanzang visited the Indian subcontinent and spent time studying in the Nalanda University. Xuanzang described the university as follows:

1. The teachers were men of highest ability and talent, and they followed the teachings of the Buddha in all sincerity.
2. The rules of the monastery were strict, and everyone had to follow them.
3. Discussions were held throughout the day, and the old and the young mutually helped one another.
4. Learned men from different cities came here to settle their doubts.

New entrants were asked difficult questions by the gatekeeper, who allowed them to enter only after they were able to answer his questions. Seven out of every ten were not able to answer.

OR

Arikamedu, near Puducherry, is an important archaeological site. It was excavated in the 1940s by the British archaeologist Sir Mortimer Wheeler.

Arikamedu was a coastal trading centre, a major port and a coastal settlement where ships unloaded goods from distant lands. It was an important bead-making centre. It was a prosperous settlement and owed its prosperity to a thriving trade with the Roman Empire. Textiles, beads, semi-precious stones and glass-shell bangles were the major exports from the port. The imports included wine and olive oil.

OR

The Government is now recognising hawkers/street vendors as a general benefit and hawking as a right of people to earn their livelihood.

The Government is trying to do the following:

- Modify the law which banned street vendors, such that they have a place to work without hampering either traffic or people.
- Make hawking zones for towns and cities.
- Allow mobile vendors to move around freely.
- It also has said that the hawkers need to be part of committees which are set up to take these and other decisions relating to them.

Answer 12

The farmers commit suicide in some areas due to the following reasons:

- They have to borrow money from moneylenders to purchase basic things such as seeds, fertilisers and pesticides.
- There is a possibility of a major crop failure if the seeds are not of good quality or pests attack their crops.
- The crops can also be ruined if the monsoon does not bring enough rain.
- Because of this, farmers sometimes are unable to pay back their loans.
- For the family to survive, they may even have to borrow more money.
- The loan then becomes so large that no matter what they earn, they are unable to repay and are in debt.

OR

Street workers have no specific jobs. Their work changes according to the requirement.

1. They sometimes sell things or repair them or provide a service.
2. They work on their own.
3. They are not employed by anyone and therefore have to organise their own work.
4. They have to plan how much to purchase as well as where and how to set up their shops.
5. Their shops are usually temporary structures, sometimes just some boards or papers spread over discarded boxes or maybe a canvas sheet hung up on a few poles.

They may also use their own carts or simply a plastic sheet spread on the pavement.
