

Kabbadi Match

Games and sports are a part and parcel of life. In fact, they are as important as studies. I love to take part in games. Kabbadi is my favorite game. Last Sunday, a Kabbadi match was played on the Mandi grounds. It was played between our college team and S.A. Jain College team. Our captain won the toss and selected of the side. The game started at 3.20 p.m. Our captain won the toss and selected the side. Our captain went to the side shouting, "Kabaddi, Kabbadi". Nobody came near him. He himself moved forward and touched a player. He came back without losing his breath. He won the first point. Then a player of the rival team took his turn. One of our players caught hold his right leg. He lost breath. The game went on for about an hour. The captain of the rivals team tried his best score maximum point. There were many ups and down in the game. We won and lost many points. At last, the referee gave the whistle. He counted the points and announced the results. Our team won the match by 62-58 points. It was a well contested match. The students of our college raised shouts of joy. It was a golden moment for us all. We were in high spirits. The principal of our college congratulated our players. He also applauded the players of the S.A Jain college for their good performance. Both the team left the ground in good cheer.
