READING

I. Read the passage given below.

- I. As heart disease continues to be the number one killer in the United States, researchers have become increasingly interested in identifying the potential risk factors that trigger heart attacks. High-fat diets and life in the fast lane have long been known to contribute to the high incidence of heart failure.
- II. But according to new studies, the list of risk factors may be significantly longer and quite surprising.
- III. Heart failure, e.g., appears to have seasonal and temporal patterns. A higher percentage of heart attacks occurs in cold weather and more people experience heart failure on Monday than on any other day of the week. In addition, people are more susceptible to heart attacks in the first few hours after waking. Cardiologists first observed this morning phenomenon in the mid-1980 and have since discovered a number of possible causes. An early-morning rise in blood pressure, heart rate and concentration of heart stimulating hormones, plus a reduction of blood flow to the heart, may all contribute to the higher incidence of heart attacks between the hours of 8.00 a.m. and 10.00 a.m.
- IV. In other studies, both birthday and bachelorhood have been implicated as risk factors. Statistics reveal that heart attack rate increases significantly for both females and males in the few days immediately preceding and following their birthdays. And unmarried men are more at risk for heart attacks than their married counterparts. Though stress is thought to be linked in some way to all of the aforementioned risk factors, intense research continues in the hope of future comprehending why and how heart failure is triggered.

Based on your understanding of the passage, answer any eight out of the ten questions by choosing the correct option.

(a) Getting married (b) Rainy weather
(c) Eating fatty foods (d) Driving fast

(c) Unknown (d) Primary
4. According to the passage, which of the following is not a possible cause of many heart attacks?
(a) Decreased blood flow to the heart
(b) Increased blood pressure
(c) Lower heart rate
(d) Increase in hormones
5. As used in the passage, which of the following could best replace the word 'reveal'?
(a) Observe (b) Show
(c) Explain (d) Mean
6. Which of the following does the passage infer?
(a) We now fully understand how the risk factors trigger heart attacks
(b) We do not fully understand how the risk factors trigger heart attacks
(c) We have not identified risk factors associated with heart attacks
(d) We have recently begun to study how risk factors work

II. Read the passage given below.

- I. The Delhi 2015 results are extra ordinary for many reasons. Not even in their wildest dreams, would the BJP and the Congress have dreamt of such drubbing. While the Congress was widely expected to lose and be content with a handful of seats, it is the BJP's drubbing that left everyone shocked. The AAP wave was so powerful that even Kiran Bedi, the BJP's Chief Ministerial Candidate lost from Krishna Nagar, the safest seat for the BJP.
- II. This is the first time after 1977 that a party got more than 50% of the total vote in Delhi. The AAP polled about 54.3% of the total vote which is highest in the history of Delhi elections. The BJP polled 32.2% while the Congress was a distant third with just 9.7% vote. A 22% lead over BJP meant that the AAP virtually decimated both the BJP and the Congress by winning 67 of the 70 seats (more than 95% of the total seats) while the BJP had to be content with just 3 seats. The Congress drew a blank.
- III. The 54.3% vote share is the highest in the history of Delhi elections. There have been only two instances in the history of Delhi elections where a party won more than 50% of the votes. First was way back in 1951 during Nehru's time and the second time was during the Janata Party wave in 1977.
- IV. Delhi has witnessed three elections from 2013 to 2015; two Assembly elections and one Lok Sabha election in 2014. The change in fortunes of the various parties is fascinating. While the Congress went into decline mode from 2013 to 2015, the BJP peaked during the 2014 Lok Sabha elections on the back of a national resurgence. The BJP lost more than 14% of the vote in 2015 compared to the Lok Sabha elections in 2014. Though it managed to get more or less the same vote share as in December 2013, the AAP went so far ahead of BJP that there was 22% difference in the vote share of AAP and BJP this time around. The AAP gained close to 25% vote share compared to December 2013 and 21% compared to the Lok Sabha election in May 2014.

Party	Dec, 13 Assembly		May, 14 Lok-Sabha		Feb, 15 Assembly
	Seats won	Vote Share	Lead in	Vote Share	Seats won	Vote Share
AAP	28	29.5	10	33	67	54.3
BJP	31	34.1	60	46.5	3	32.2
Congress	8	24.6	0	15.3	0	9.7
Others	3	11.8	0	5.2	0	3.8
Total	70	100	70	100	70	100

- V. As can be clearly seen, the Congress is in a continuous decline while the BJP peaked in 2014 and went down in 2015. The AAP seems to be the only party that has consistently increased its vote share from 2013 to 2015.

Based on your understanding of the passage, answer any six out of the eight questions by choosing the correct option.
