OR

Democracy means rule by the people or through the representatives elected by the people.

In a democracy every citizen takes part in the decision making process. All the policies, of the government are debated in the Parliament before taking final decisions. This takes a lot of time and leads to delays in the decision-making.

Although democratic government are expected to be attentive to the needs of the people and less corrupt, but in actual practice, it does not happen.

Democracies are known to frustrate the needs of the people and often ignore the demand of a major portion of the population . Even developed democracies have been known to favour the affluent and the connected few people.

Democracy is also not free of corruption as politician have been known to indulge in money making. Thus, democracy is seen to be good in principle but felt not good in practice.

Despite all this however, democratic governments are able to correct themselves. Democracy is much superior to any other form of government in promoting dignity and freedom of the individual.
